FLYING FROM FRANCE TO AUSTRALIA.

AIRMEN TAKEN FOR DEVILS.

PARIS, November 21.
La Presse de Paris publishes telegrams from Karachi from Benoit, companion of Poulet in the attempt to fly to Australia. According to it the aviator had some exciting adventures en-route to India. In the course of his message, Benoit says that at one place where the airmen were compelled to halt a day for repairs the inhabitants thought they were devils and wanted to kill them. It was a good job the airmen were armed. The country wherein the airmen met this unfriendly reception is not stated.

GERMAN TRADE IN CHINA.

BRITISH FIRMS CAN DO IT.

LONDON, November 21.
The board of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce adopted a minute of the China executive stating that although trade directly with enemy countries is desirable in national and international interests it is against the country's interest to reopen connections with German firms in China and the Far East where British and allied firms are adequately equipped and sufficient in number to deal with all the trade with those countries.

SILVER TOO DEAR FOR COINS.

NICKEL COINAGE ADVOCATED.

LONDON, November 21.
The council of the London Chamber of Commerce has decided to recommend that in view of the price of silver and the possible disappearance of the silver issue the government should prepare to issue a nickel coinage of denominations under five shillings, sufficient to provide for the needs of the country; also to endeavour to find substitutes for the use of silver in India and other silver using dependencies.

AMERICAN CONSULATE GENERAL, HONGKONG.

TRADE INQUIRY LIST NO. 127.

Hongkong merchants are invited to correspond with American concerns seeking Hongkong connections as listed below:—

No. 1257.—Peanuts and Essential oils.—Beresford's Limited of 6 East Lake Street, Chicago, Ill., seek Hongkong connections for the import into the United States, especially in Chicago's territory, of peanuts and essential oils. The company invites correspondence.

No. 1258.—Import and Export.—The Girard Export and Import Company of the Barclay Building, 299 Broadway New York City, seek Hongkong connections in the import and export trade dealing particularly in chemicals, construction materials, electrical supplies, food products, hardware, machinery, paints and similar goods and importing most lines of raw materials.

No. 1259.—Grinding, Polishing and Tapping Machinery.—The Saint Louis Machine Tool Company of 932 Loughborough Avenue, Saint Louis, Mo., invite correspondence looking to the introduction of their line of grinding and tapping machinery.

No. 1260.—Scrap Rubber Products.—Samuel Giant of 2213 First Avenue South, Seattle, Wash., seeks Hongkong connections for the importation into the United States of scrap automobile and bicycle tires, old rubber boots and shoes, scrap metals of all kinds, old Manila rope and similar goods. He also wishes connections from the United States of folded newspapers.

No. 1261.—Iodine Pen and Drug-gists' Sundries.—The Vico Supply Company, Inc. of 143 Broadway, New York City, seeks Hongkong connections for the introduction of a patented iodine pen and drug-gists' sundries and invites correspondence.

No. 1262.—General Import and Export.—Messrs Raymond and Adams of No. 436 Land Tide Building, Philadelphia, Pa., seek Hongkong connections in the general import and export trade and are particularly interested in tin. The firm invites correspondence.

No. 1263.—Iron and Steel Products and Hardware.—The New York Iron and Steel Products Company of 143 Chamber Street, New York City, seeks Hongkong connections in the iron and steel and hardware trades and invite correspondence.

No. 1264.—Automobiles and accessories; electrical goods, mill supplies, etc.—The Barclay Overseas Corporation of the Woolworth Building, New York City, seek Hongkong connections for the introduction of their line of automobiles and accessories, China and glassware, electrical goods, clothing, mill supplies, and office supplies. The company invites correspondence.

No. 1265.—General Import and export.—The Aqua-Terrain Corporation of 253 Broadway, New York

CHINESE TELEGRAMS.

(Translated for the China Mail from the Wok Tai Yei Po.)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21.

General Chu Shu Tsang telegraphs Kan Wan Fang saying that he (Kan) shows contempt to Parliament and ought to be punished. Referring to this telegram the President said "Just see what he is doing."

Wong Yip Tong is sending his family back to Peking. He declared that he also is going to leave Shanghai.

Admiral Sah Chim Ping telegraphed the Government that he will proceed to Peking shortly. He asked the Government to remit him $50,000 to meet the cost of suppressing bandits.

Custom surplus amounting to over 3,000,000 taels is to be handed over to the Peking Government at an early date.

The Peking Government proposes to appoint Wong Ching Ting, Wu Chiu Shu, the Chinese delegates to the Paris Peace Conference, and Woong Ching Wai, formerly a well known revolutionary leader to be the committee of the Foreign Relations Commission. The proposal has been referred to the South Government for concurrence.

The Public Organizations at Shanghai have telegraphed to the North and South Governments requesting that the case of the Japanese outrage at Fochow be strictly dealt with.

Long Kai Yew, the Yunnan Tsuchun in reply to the Peking Government requesting him to stop the issue of gold currency, says "If the gold currency scheme is proved to be prejudicial to the country as a whole it is however still better than the issuing of the notes by the China and Communication Banks."

THE SINGAPORE DOLLAR.

A RUMOUR DENIED

There has been a persistent rumour round town, this morning, to the effect that the standard rate of the Singapore Dollar is about to be raised to three shillings.

A China Mail representative was informed by an official of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank this morning, that such a procedure was most improbable, and that so far as the Bank itself was concerned, no information had been received. Enquiries from other quarters failed to elicit confirmation of the rumour, indeed the various people concerned appeared to be surprisingly ignorant of the fact that the rumour existed.

City, seek Hongkong connections in the general import and export trade and invite correspondence.

No. 1266.—Safety pins.—The Consolidated Safety Pin Company of Bloomfield, N. J., seek a Hongkong agent for the introduction of their line of safety pins and invite correspondence. Hongkong, 20th November, 1919.

EARLIER TELEGRAM.

HAVAS REVIEW.

PARIS, November 18th.

A Havas message says:—
Peace Conference circles are much concerned about the German proceedings in Silesia where the Allies have been set at defiance by the Germans, who held elections, failing to execute the Armistice conditions. The German Government have been notified of the invalidity of such elections.

On the other hand, the political situation in Berlin gives rise to much suspicion. Pro-Kaiser and pro-Hindenburg scenes grow daily in aggressiveness and importance all over Germany.

Passports have not yet been abolished between Great Britain and France but other minor formalities have been liberalized.

France's revenue from indirect taxation and State enterprises for October amounted to 81,000,000 francs, an increase of 800,000,000 on the Budget estimates.

The French papers state that a perfect Franco-British political understanding exists on principal foreign matters, which, happily, appear to be the same standpoint taken by the other members of the Allies.

Before leaving England, President Poincare sent a message to the whole English nation stating that Franco-British friendship was sanctified by their common sufferings and victory, such friendship being no mere diplomatic accord, but a close friendship wrought by two nations. There is no alteration in the situation in respect of the printing workers' strike. There is an improvement in the situation brought about by reason of the food stores and the dry-goods stores' strikes.

THE CLASH BETWEEN JAPANESE AND CHINESE AT FOCHOW.

PEKING, Nov. 20.

The Chinese Government is informed that the Japanese Consul at Fochow has warned the local officials that if the boycott of Japanese goods does not cease trouble may arise for which he will not assume responsibility.

It is stated that the Japanese Consulate guards were amongst those who assaulted the Chinese students. When arrested and handed over to their Consul they were immediately released.

The Japanese contend that the clash occurred through the students attacking a Chinese who purchased Japanese goods and was being protected by two Japanese. The Chinese Government points out that the man had a legal remedy and did not need Japanese interference.

CHINA AND THE LYONS EXHIBITION.

In response to the invitation of the French Government, China has agreed to send delegates and exhibits to Lyons Exhibition.

CONSORTIUM LOAN INSTEAD OF AMERICAN LOAN.

The American thirty-million loan will be dropped and a Consortium loan advanced instead.

The Chinese regret the change as they prefer to deal with one nation rather than with a group.

JAPANESE SQUADRON FOR FOCHOW.

[By Courtesy Chinese Commercial Press.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21.

A telegram has been received from Tokyo stating that the Japanese Government has ordered a squadron of 21 boats to proceed to Fochow.

APPOINTMENT OF A CABINET.

Kan Wan-pang, the Premier, is consulting Tuan Kie-shui with reference to the appointment of the Cabinet. It has been proposed to appoint Li Si-cho Minister of Finance, but Chou Sai-chong prefers to have Chow Chi-chai.

It is reported that Kan Wan-pang will act as Minister of Finance in addition to being Premier, and select another person to be Minister of the Military Board.

JAPAN'S PLANS FOR CHINA.
News received from Foreign Diplomatic circles states that Japan proposes to divide China into two Republics, the North and the South, and ask the foreign Powers to recognize them. Most of this Foreign Ministers do not endorse the idea.

SITTING ON THE EDITOR.

The resignation of the Editor of the Daily News leads some papers to discuss the question of Editor and Proprietor.

"Ever since the newspaper reached its modern prominence, the question of the relation between Editor and Proprietor has been growing in complexity and importance," says the New Statesman. "And perhaps it would not be altogether untrue to say that the instances of the perfect kind of relationship in the case of leading political journals could be counted almost on the fingers of one hand."

"During the past twenty years, in London and all the large cities, we have seen an extraordinary succession of changes in the Press. They are connected chiefly with mechanical developments, the expansion of the news services, elaborate methods of distribution, and the rapid growth of large newspaper trusts. As the individual proprietor, with a personal or family interest in the paper, has tended to disappear, so, inevitably, has the editor whose authority covered all departments of his office and Press."

THE OMNIPOTENT EDITOR! The single omnipotent editor has barely survived. He was always a much rarer being than people have imagined. Where, indeed, should one look for the poetical combining literary gifts with the political sense, a nose for news with the administrative faculty? Surely, it should be obvious that in asking for him, we are demanding more than human nature can supply. Some would say that the one who most nearly fills the bill is Mr. Garvin; but Mr. Garvin has the good fortune of being a Sunday editor.

"There is, moreover, a particular point in this connection to be taken into account. Proprietors, as a rule, do not want a superman in the chair. They prefer to limit the editor's power of control."

EDITORS OF THE DAY. In the Northcliffe Press the theory and practice of control unite in a negation of personal responsibility in the editor so-called. Mr. Parris of the Daily Chronicle is a new editor. On the Westminster Gazette, no doubt, Mr. J. A. Spender might, had he chosen, have been director-general. He has preferred to leave the news pages to his staff and to build up his reputation on a record in leader-writing which is the most accomplished and consistent product of his kind in our time.

Mr. Wickham Steed, made editor of the Times last year, is not more unlike Mr. Garvin than he is unlike his renowned predecessor, Deland. He went to his great office with the experience of a special correspondent and an expert in the affairs of Central Europe. Few people can tell Mr. Wickham Steed anything about the Hapsburgs or Jugoslavians. The youngest voter of Windsor or Pontefract, maybe, could tell him more than he will ever know about soldiers' pensions and Robert Smilie and the Sankey Report. And, after all, the Times is published in London, not in Vienna.

THE TIED EDITOR. We come, it would seem, to this. Since the dominant tendency of the Press in our epoch is towards trust-ownership, the greater number of the prize editorial posts are being held by men who are executive officers rather than publicists. They are compelled by circumstances to regard the post as a professional job and are apt to regard their leader-writers as a team of advocates. No power on earth, we may all agree, can secure the continuous services of a thoughtful and independent editor to a newspaper which is the organ of a purely financial or party syndicate.

But that, of course, is not the only position that is left open to the editor of to-day. He may, and frequently does, hold his position under a single proprietor or a group associated directly with certain views or objects. In such cases, unless the editor is in the felicitous, and increasingly rare, position of being a man of great powers backed by a disinterested proprietor, his course is beset with difficulty.

THE PROPRIETOR-PARTNER. It may be that the political and social policy he wishes to pursue comes at times into conflict with the particular interests—financial, social or philanthropic—to which the newspaper-owner is wedded. It may be that, with the passage of years, the owners have moved away from the general policy upon the basis of which the editor was engaged. There are a thousand possibilities. In all such cases, of course, compatibility of temper is no less essential than unity of aim. For any editor of character, the relation is happy only so long as mutual confidence is preserved. All too easily can it become intolerable. And, when all is said, it remains true that, for the journalist who takes his calling seriously, almost the only satisfactory form of control is that of the proprietor-editor.

LONDON'S NEW PAPERS. "During what has been, literally, the most critical year of modern history, London has been served by about a dozen morning and evening journals which can be regarded as effective instruments in the moulding of opinion," says the Nation. "Of these, four only have stood for independent Liberalism and for Labour: the Daily News and Daily Herald, the Westminster Gazette and the Star."

Think of it: a metropolitan community of seven millions, the most

SENSATIONAL DROP IN COTTON.

JAPANESE EXPORT STOPPED.

Says the N.C. Daily News of Nov. 14: A telegram was received in Shanghai yesterday reporting a heavy decline in American cotton, a fall of 187 points.

The quotation wired was 86.20 for December (as against 88.17 on the previous day), and 88.20 spot, quoted at 10.20 on the previous day. There had recently been extraordinarily rapid rises in the price of cotton.

In the absence of detailed information, it is assumed that yesterday's sudden fall may be attributable to the issue of a Government report correcting recent reports on the adverse effects of frost and bad weather.

The local market was affected yesterday by the receipt of information that Japan has prohibited the export of cotton yarn in consequence of the shortage in supply.

We understand that there was a drop of 4-6 per bale. Latterly, imports from Japan have been dwindling considerably and have come down to a very small quantity. For some time past, there has been much agitation in Japan against profiteering in the cotton trade, a group of powerful speculators being said to be manipulating the market towards abnormal prices. At the same time demand greatly exceeds supply, hence the present Government action in prohibiting exports.

powerful in the world, enormously vital and teachable, though not friendly to ideas, and anything but radical; a community, moreover, which holds the greatest concentration of knowledge, experience, intelligence, and skilled expression known among modern men—content with this extraordinarily meagre daily reflection of the actions and thoughts of mankind; and aware, whenever the reminder comes, that a filibustering enterprise, a temporary lack of funds, or a dispute between an editor and a managing director, might at any moment land one of the four over to the enhancement of the Reaction! If not merely true, the thing would be unimaginable.

ADVERSARIA.

It was G. K. Chesterton who defined gratitude as "happiness doubled by wonder," so there is peculiar propriety in the gratitude we are feeling towards a benefactor who, recently lent us Chesterton's "Short History of England." It has been a source of such joy these last few days that we tremble to think we might have missed the book altogether. We could without discomfort bear the thought of having missed the Paris Exhibition or its London imitation the White City, but not so lightly the thought that we had missed such a truly Chestertonian production as this history. This, we said after sampling a few pages, is magnificent, but it is not history. A few more still, and we changed our mind. More still, and we chorused (Stevensonian word), "This is not only history, it is a history of history." It induces the conviction that all other historians are prehistoric.

We like especially this reference to LESSONS FOR COEUR DE LION TO-DAY. His tale is told with the implication that his departure for the Crusade was something like the escape of a schoolboy running away to sea. It was, in this view, a pardonable or lovable prank; whereas in truth it was more like a responsible Englishman now going to the Front. Christendom was nearly one nation, and the Front was the Holy Land. Philip Augustus, Richard's contemporary in France, had the name of a particularly cautious and coldly public-spirited statesman; yet Philip Augustus went on the same Crusade. The reason was, of course, that the Crusades were, for all thoughtful Europeans, things of the highest statesmanship and the purest public spirit. If we delete, therefore, of course, which is fatally played by any writer but not proper in writing history, and if we substitute "pseudo-thoughtful Europeans" for the Chestertonian version, we have there a passage which may be usefully applied to Mr. Arthur Balfour's speech about our "responsibilities" in Egypt and the Sudan, reported in yesterday's cablegrams. Behold in the speech and the cheers which punctuated it the true Crusading seriousness. "British supremacy exists and British supremacy is going to be maintained. (Cheers). Let none in or out of Egypt make a mistake on that cardinal principle of government." We suggest that future generations of Englishmen will look upon our notion of the White Man's Burden much as we now look upon the enthusiasm of the Crusaders.

Our columns for weeks past seem to indicate that in extending their hospitality to local poets we have encountered the "long felt want." They have added to the gaiety of the Colony, which is gain. Emotion, rather than intellect has been the burden of the majority, which again is presumably as it should be. Aesthetic emotions aroused by our beautiful scenery have accounted for the best in our opinion. One poet has gone to sea for inspiration, and found it. The younger school, however, constituting the majority, does not seem able to let the ladies alone, a conspicuous example of the fleshly spirit appearing to-day. Surely poetic emotion need not be restricted to this dangerous field? For us, we must confess that we have experienced emotions as profound and as genuine in approaching some favourite dish as any shown by these rhythmic lovers. Why cannot we have a sonnet to a plate of ham and eggs for a change; or even, as we suggested yesterday, a song in praise of onions? Sons and daughters of the Muse, please, do try to gratify us with a little more variety. Even honeymooners eat breakfast, don't they?

A contemporary OUR IGNORANT says of a man CONTEMPORARIES, who has just lost his son that "a large mead of sympathy will go out to him." We believe always in practical sympathy, and perhaps the sympathy that lends out to the bereaved a large drink (even of old-fashioned liquor) is as practical as any.

Dum spiro spero,
and all that sort of thing. We have no desire to kill the League of Nations until it is dead, and even now (with the American Senate rising bloodstained from its corpse) its death may have been exaggerated. If it is dead, our idea is to hold a post-mortem before it stinks. We regarded it as a Noah's Ark, to save the innocent generations from the world's worst wickedness. To those who said it was not a thing new, that it had been tried before, and so on, we said that Lemech the father of Noah was not as righteous as his son. It begins to look as if Noah is no great shakes, either, if this ark is to founder. The fault, if fault there be, was in the builders, and not altogether in the American Senators. The Lord told them to build it of gopher wood, but they thought they knew better. The British insisted on shoving in a plank or two of British oak. The French insisted on many cubits of poplar. The Japanese favoured pine. This is a parable.

As in many others, the Ark Talmud version of the story of Noah's Ark differs from the English version, notably in the manner of selecting the animals to be saved with Noah. According to the Talmud, Noah was told to stand in the doorway of the ark, and the beasts and fowls would be assembled opposite. Those that lie down before thee thy sons lead into the ark, and those that remain standing thou shalt abandon. Thus we see that even zoology was "taken lying down." Seriously, we have always thought that was the wrong way about, and wondered at the psychology of the ancient writers who didn't see it. Standing animals would have been more easily driven, and the fact that they were standing would indicate that they were the healthier or sturdier sort. Perhaps the idea was to save the weaklings? In that case it was a defiance of nature's ways, as it still is. As a parable we consider the choice of the standing beasts would have been better, if our numerous Jewish friends will excuse the seeming irreverence. The people we most dislike are the inert beasts who lie down in trouble when there's an ark in sight.

We should never INCONSISTENCY expect men to live IS CONSISTENT consistently, for IN MAN, they cannot do it. All we have a right to ask is that they should reason and argue consistently, and that is very hard. No man need be ashamed of inconsistency, since most men are consistently inconsistent and unaware of it. An amusing illustration of this is provided by the Talmudic story of Abram. The pure reasoning by which Abram tried to prove to his father Terach the falseness of his wooden gods argues an advanced rationalism in the old Hebrew author. Yet when Terach's anger brings Abram before King Nimrod, the same author tells us that Abram stayed on the hill in the midst of a furnace so hot that the men who cast him in were consumed by it, and others who approached to pull him out again had to flee from the great heat.

What perverse fate is it that compels us so often to argue with our WOMAN'S DOLLAR woman colleague? We simply do not agree with her in her suggestion that by avoiding local stores and sending home for things she is sure of getting five shillings worth for her dollar. Nor do we consider it fair to say that we get only two shillings for it locally. Everybody knows that the purchasing power of a sovereign at home is only about half what it was, so that if she gets half a crown's worth for her dollar she will be lucky. The purchasing power of the dollar locally may not look as big as its exchange value, but our tradespeople give good value. When one thinks of the skill put into the selecting and buying, the careful packing and shipping, and the fact that the goods are spread out for us to take or to leave, one cannot grumble. Besides, there must be much that we do leave, rather than take, and the tradesman loses there. When you open your parcel from Home, Madame, there will be stuff in it that you'd rather leave than take. That's where you lose.

The Collections at St. John's Cathedral tomorrow will be on behalf of the Seamen's Institute, and the sermons will be preached by the Chaplain of the Missions to Seamen, Rev. G. T. Waldegrave. To enable the work to be carried on satisfactorily, the sum of $20,000 is needed of which $10,000 is to defray the cost of the new motor-launch "Day-spring," which plays so large a part in the work among the Merchant Seamen of this port. By its means officers and men are visited afloat, picnics, excursions, and bathing parties are conducted, and any seamen wishing to attend services or entertainments at the Institute are conveyed from their ships to the Institute and back. Amongst other needs are the necessary equipment for changing a room at the Institute into a little church, electric fans throughout the building, a billiard table for the Officers' Room, an additional piano, and funds and assistance for Christmas festivities. Help in the shape of concerts etc., and gifts of literature are ever most welcome. The Institute is open for inspection any hour during the day.

KOWLOON BRITISH SCHOOL.

FIRST ANNUAL SPORTS MEETING.

The first of what are to be the Kowloon British School annual sports was held yesterday afternoon on the Kowloon Cricket Club ground by kind permission of the officials and members of the Club. The entrance to the ground was gallantly decorated with flags and other decorations and everything possible for the comfort of spectators and participants in the sports had been provided.

His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by the Hon. Mr. Claud Severn and Captain Warner (private secretary) arrived at about half past four and took a keen interest in the races proceeding at that time. There were also present Mr. R. M. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ralphs and many other well-known personages.

A word must be said for the officials who were indefatigable in their efforts to make the function a success and it was undoubtedly due to their efforts that the various races were conducted without undue delay and at the same time in perfect order. Each race was keenly contested and many tip-top athletes in embryo were disclosed, particularly Master J. Thomson who walked off with the cup presented by his father, Captain Thomson, for the 220 yards race, in addition to several other prizes. Naturally Captain Thomson got somewhat of a surprise at his present should come back to the house and we understand that he is planning to present another cup, competition for which his son will not be eligible.

In calling upon His Excellency to distribute the prizes Mr. G. F. Nightingale, Head Master of the School, said:—

Your Excellency, Ladies and Gentlemen, Boys and Girls—We are all very honoured by the presence of His Excellency this afternoon on this, our first sports day. It has been a glorious day for all—visitors, competitors and officials. I am not going to speak about the value of sport or games as a necessary complement of the scholastic side of school life. It is universally recognized and has been amply demonstrated. I shall confine my remarks to expressions of thanks to all those who have assisted to make these sports a success. First, to the Committee and members of the Kowloon Cricket Club. We all know and appreciate the keen interest the members of this club have always taken in the School children of this Colony. This afternoon they have not only given us the use of this splendid ground, but have prepared the course, provided apparatus, chairs, tables, etc. In addition, they sent me a very generous donation towards the Prize Fund. Still further, they have assisted me by their active participation, as starters, handicappers and judges. The success of the sports is largely due to their efforts, and we are deeply grateful to them, especially to Mr. Blackburn, Mr. Robinson—who superintended the arrangement of the ground—and Mr. Davison, to whom are due the splendid decorations we have so admired.

Second, to the Hon. Mr. Claud Severn, Mr. Dyer, Mr. Ralphs and the Committee of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club for their generous donations to the Sports Fund; and to Captain Thomson and Mrs. Walker for their gifts of silver cups.

Third, to the parents who subscribed so liberally to the Prize Fund and have given me every assistance. I have already thanked them as members of the Kowloon C.C. and I now thank them as parents of the children attending the school, and as officials of the sports. I should like to mention that one parent has promised to provide all apparatus necessary for tennis, polo, nets, roller and lawn-mower. It is a splendid gift and we thank the donor, Mr. Frost, very much indeed.

Lastly, to the ladies who under the direction of Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Rosser provided all the refreshments. They have worked very hard and they must feel gratified that their efforts have been crowned with success. My personal thanks are due to Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Rosser for their great assistance in the organization of the sports, buying and arranging prizes, etc. They and the Club have made these sports a success. I now ask you, sir, to distribute the prizes. (Applause).

His Excellency then handed the prizes to the successful competitors. Gifts were also made to the children who had not won any event.

His Excellency, addressing the gathering, said:—Mr. Nightingale ladies and gentlemen—I have given away prizes on very many occasions, but I think that this is a record. I never remember anywhere, with the exception of the day when I read "Alice in Wonderland," of finding anybody sporting assembles where everybody received prizes. I am sure you children must be very grateful to the generous donors of the prizes. You all must be very grateful to Mr. Nightingale who has so ably organised these sports. I understand that this is the first occasion on which sports have been held and the success which has attended them must be very gratifying indeed to Mr. Nightingale and those who have assisted him in

UNIVERSITY CONCERT.

A SUCCESSFUL PROGRAMME.

The seventh annual University Halls concert was successfully held last evening in the Great Hall of the University. There was a large audience, and the gallery was packed with students. A varied programme was presented and entirely enjoyed. Mr. Shih Wei Hua opened with a mandarin song. A violin duet was ably given by Messrs. Y. C. Teh and F. Prata. Mr. Mackintosh, the Registrar, gave the humorous story of his meeting with the "vulgar boy." Mrs. Violet Chan with Miss Quinn as accompanist at the piano sang a beautiful piece, which was encored. Miss R. Wong, a young lady who recently returned from England, played a piano solo. Hon. Mr. Claud Severn said that although he was under medical advice, he was obliged to ascend the stage as he was approached by a number of students. His excellent song with a musical mimicry was much applauded. After the interval when tea was served, a trio presented a representation of Shanghai musicians with varied instruments. Mr. James Lee in the character of a prisoner sang a clever impersonation. Miss Choy with Mr. To as accompanist, sang a sweet song, which was greatly appreciated. The concluding item was a farce entitled "Bulldog," which was written by Mr. Mustapa, B. Osman, Dr. Jack Bull (Mr. Osman) and Mrs. Bull (Mrs. Chan) were the chief characters.

Dr. G. P. Jordan, said the evening had been well enjoyed, and a word of thanks must be given to those who were responsible for the arrangements. The National Anthem was then played.

ARMED CHINESE.

A man and two women were before Mr. R. O. Hutchison with the unlawful possession of 4 revolvers and 900 rounds of ammunition.

Hon. Mr. Wolfe prosecuted, and Mr. R. E. Potter represented the defendants. Mr. Wolfe stated that three of the revolvers were found in a cubicle occupied by the man, and the other together with the ammunition were in the women's cubicle. He did not believe that they were in league with robbers. He suggested that bail be allowed $200 for the man and $1,000 each for the women.

Mr. Potter said the bail was too heavy and asked for a reduction. The case was remanded.

making the arrangements and in carrying out the details which are necessary for such a successful function. You have been most fortunate in every possible respect, in your organizer and in your Committee, and last but not least in this connection, in the weather. I hope you have all enjoyed yourselves very much and I think it is your duty to signify your pleasure to Mr. Nightingale and the others in the usual way. (Applause).

AN ENTHUSIASTIC HEAD MASTER.

At the conclusion of the sports, of the Kowloon British School yesterday afternoon, a China Mail representative had a chat with Mr. Nightingale, Headmaster of the School. It was disclosed that Mr. Nightingale is one of those educationalists who has not got into the rut of rule-of-thumb working. He believes in making the school lives of the children attractive as possible, with particular regard to the physical side. For instance, on December 5 next there is to be a social evening at which all the children will turn up in fancy dress costume and prizes will be given for the best dresses. An endeavour will be made to make this a periodical function. During the summer months it is intended to have a picnic every week for the children and parents. Mr. Nightingale was very enthusiastic about the physical side and it is intended to hold dancing and drill lessons every Friday evening. The Government having provided all the necessary equipment for a gymnasium. In addition, for the boys, there are to be weekly physical drills under the tutelage of trained athletes from the Naval Yard. The boys will be particularly instructed in the art of self-defence. Mr. Nightingale will be congratulated on his foresight and work on behalf of the children who will no doubt realise the benefit of what they have been provided with, in after life.

REVIEW.

Overland China Mail, No. 2650
37 p.p. China Mail Office 25 cents.

More people would buy this publication if they had seen it lately. As a Hongkong publication to send to interested friends at home it has no peer. Here are 37 large pages full of Hongkong doings every week, and all for 25 cents. For $13 it is sent to any address in the Empire for a whole year, postage free. The number before us (out yesterday) has 22 columns of "Adversaria" (the diary of Hongkong that appears in the daily China Mail), over 100 columns of local news, local poetry, local letters, sport, etc. The frontpiece is a good map of Hongkong Island.

ESCAPE OF A BANISHEE.

ARREST OF HIS BROTHER.

A serious case was before Mr. R. E. Lindsell this morning when a young Chinese was charged with assaulting a Chinese constable and resisting arrest. The constable stated that he was stationed at Yau-mai. He came over yesterday at 4 p.m. to West Point to arrest a returned banishee on information received. He was walking towards Connaught Road West, when he saw the man coming, up in the company of four others including a defendant. He seized him, when he was struck by defendant. There was a struggle, and as a result the banishee escaped. All the others ran away and he gave chase. Defendant ran in to Des Voeux Road West, where he was caught. On being arrested defendant asked to be brought to his mother, to find his escaped brother. On the way defendant said that as he was his friend, he ought not to arrest his brother. He was later brought to the station.

Defendant denied that his brother was present. He was alone, when he met the constable. He knew him when he was not in the Force, and there was a quarrel between them recently. He believed that the constable was taking his revenge. He had told the constable that he was not a dangerous character, and asked why he should be arrested.

His Worship:—Can you suggest why the constable's coat was torn? Defendant:—I don't know why. How should I dare to attack a constable?

Sentence of three months hard labour was passed.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE NEWS.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CHINESE "SLAVERY."

(To the Editor of the China Mail.)

Sir,—I have been called "rude" by the writer of the "Adversaria," and impolite by Fung Wun-u. It is to criticize others in language rather outspoken is rudeness, then I really do not know what politeness is. Probably it means calling a man either a butterfly, a buffalo or a monkey. I would not have replied to Fung Wun-u's letter, which contains insulting allusions not at all connected with the argument in question—Slavery—were it not that he questions my translation of P'i Ch'ip. He says that the first character does not qualify the second. It does not, then according to the rules of the Chinese grammar, the second character would come first, for it is inconceivable that the Chinese would consider their "slaves" as superior to the "concubines"—Ch'ip. I wonder if Fung Wun-u knows that P'i Ch'ip is simply the equivalent of Shi Ch'ip—concubine-attendant? Probably he will tell me that the character shi—to wait upon—here, also does not qualify the second character? A little more study of the 13 classics will lead you to think otherwise, Fung Wun-u.—Yours truly,

JOHN KESTREL.

HERE SPEAKS ENVY.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—I have been a reader of your valuable paper for some considerable time past and a feature that has impressed me very much is your apparent willingness, at all times, to open your valuable columns to correspondents who point out various grievances which need rectification. In view of that, I would ask the courtesy of a small portion of your space, to-day, to bring to the notice of the officials a matter which, in my opinion, should receive immediate attention. In the vicinity of Kennedy Road there has lately been a most objectionable odour pervading the atmosphere, sometime between seven and eight o'clock in the evening, of cooking onions. This is becoming a public nuisance and ought to be stopped forthwith.—Thanking you, I am yours, etc.,

"SAUSAGE AND MASHED."

"BY WHAT AUTHORITY?"

The airiest and most Utopian schemes to procure security cannot do away with the fact that there will always be rough and dirty work to be done in the world.

The question is: Need those who do that work be so rough and dirty as to induce a habit of mind which regards them of no account? There lies the rub, and no tinkering with the superstructure of society can alter it.

In political thinking it is usually forgotten, even by men like Cobden and Bright, and it needs a Lassalle, a Marx, a Cobbett to bring it home. Humanity is one, and an injury to one member is an injury to the whole.

The machinery which feeds and clothes the many is in the hands of a few, who, carried by the impetus of ancient tradition, see the advantage of all in their own. The unthinking revolt of the many disquiets, but does not enlighten them, who think it right to do what they have the power to do.

This introduces the vital question:

"By what authority?"

YOUR BLOOD WANTS PURIFYING.

IF YOU are troubled with Eczema, Itches, Sores, Pimples, Boils, Scabs or eruptions of any kind continually bursting through the skin.

IF YOU have that constant itching and inflammation of Piles

IF YOU are suffering the aches and pains of Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Scrofulous and Ulcerated Sores, Glandular Swellings, Blood Poison, etc.

IF YOU are in the grip of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout, etc.

All these are mere signs of clogging blood impurity, calling for immediate treatment through the blood, so don't waste your time and money on useless lotions and messy ointments, which cannot get below the surface of the skin. What you want and what you must have is a medicine that will get right to the root of your trouble, a medicine that will thoroughly free the blood of the poisonous matter which alone is the true cause of all your suffering. Clarke's Blood Mixture is just such a medicine. It is composed of ingredients which quickly attack, overcome, and expel from the blood all impurities (from whatever cause arising), and by rendering it clean and pure, can be relied on to effect a lasting cure.

The True Value of CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE is certified by a most remarkable collection of unqualified testimonials from grateful patients of all classes—patients who have been cured after doctors and hospitals have given them up as incurable—patients who have been cured after trying many other treatments without success—patients who not only have been cured of the particular skin or blood complaint from which they were suffering, but also have found great improvement in their general health. (See pamphlet round bottle).

Over 50 years' success. Pleasant to take and warrants free from anything injurious. Of all Chemists and Storekeepers. REFUSE SUBSTITUTES. SKIN & BLOOD DISEASES.

OUR LOCAL POETS.

TO ESANIP.

[Forgive the liberty, O Esanip! I know you not, save as one who, apparently the victim of a hopeless passion, has sought consolation in the production of equally hopeless love lyrics. Should my poem cause you to delve mentally into the cobwebs of your Past in search of some memoranda, who might have penned them, I would regret it. The poem is purely a figment of imagination. —N.I.B.]

I felt the glamour of your presence long before they brought you near.

A strange new feeling seized upon me, half a longing, half a fear.

At once it flashed into my thinking that at last I understood

A refrain that had sung within me since the birth of Womanhood

Preserve your Trust inviolate, Until the coming of your Mate.

And as your palm met mine in greeting, came a thought involuntary,

Watch close the door that guards your Trust, for here is one who holds a key.

Each day you came till you convinced me Happiness must needs ensue

If I would but surrender all and trust my very soul to you.

With you away my spirit wandered; in your silent I seemed to see

A pool of lustrous shiny creatures writhe in pain or ecstasy.

But with your arms enfolding me, gazing in your eyes above

I felt that nothing should impede the Consummation of our Love.

And as your lips and hands caressed me, so I heard it once again

As if a far off orchestra had softly played a known refrain.

Preserve your Trust inviolate, until the coming of your Mate

"I give you all," my passion cried, "You are the man for whom I wait."

By my surrender to your wishes, and in your eyes disgraced?

Can it then be that Man despises what he has himself defaced?

Public Opinion's key buzz, my own forebodings, these I braved;

Alas! The very act of giving killed the love for which I craved.

The thrills that you evoked within me, I can never feel again.

Gone are the dreams that once enthralled me, now I hear but this refrain:

Fail to distinguish Love from Lust, You prove unworthy of your Trust.

Twice Love I felt toward you, though 'twas merely Lust your deeds inspired.

My Love for you is steadfast, though apparently your Lust has tired.

Go leave me! Your Desire is spent. You have no further wish to stay.

But you have lit a fire within me that will burn my Soul away.

SCOTTY DRUMMOND—PIPER.

Little Scotty Drummond, 'twas he who led the van.

A sturdy Heekin' piper in the Black Watch's band.

A-struttin' like a peacock across auld Leith's Square.

The pipes' clear scream soared high above the cornets' brassy blare.

And how the throng applauded when the piper passed them by!

A-leudin' o' the Kilties, each had a-steppin' high.

Each ladie steppin' proudly to the screamin' o' the reeds,

Forgettin' for the moment o' how the nation bleeds.

'Twas but a fortnight later, if I remember right.

The Watch was fightin' bravely 'neath the rockets' ghastly light.

Fightin'—Then they faltered, wi' hands drooppin' round,

Just then across the sea there rose an old, familiar sound.

Above the crash o' rifles, above the thund'rous roar

O' cannon and o' mortar, a thrillin' air did soar.

To the lil' o' "Bonny Dundee" the Black Watch tore ahead,

Nor halted nor faltered, not o'en to mark their dead.

The story's ancient hist'ry o' how they saved the day,

Even though the Black Watch Regiment was all but wiped away. Their bodies served as ramparts 'gainst screamin' shot and shell; The Black Watch ebb'd away that night, but served its country well.

Down in a muddy shell hole a Heekin' piper lay.

'Twas little Scotty Drummond, wi' both legs shot awa'.

The air o' "Bonny Dundee" still soared o'er led an' dike,

As Scotty lay a-dein'—An' a-bawlin' o' the pipes.

—JAMES V. MURRAY.

OF COMFORTABLE DOCTRINE.

There isn't a man that's as big as he thinks.

Nor as big as he'd like to be; And the Pompous Bighster who pines and binks

In a woman's like you and me. To put on his trousers every morn

On one leg he's got to stand. With similar worries his temper is torn

I can't think of a last line. Perhaps the China Mail would offer a prize for it?

—CAPTAIN.

[Very well; but it must be a small prize.—Ed. C.M.]

OH, FALLEN LEAF!

Whither are you going? Oh, fallen leaf!

Why do you fall From the boughs of the trees, with grief.

To me you call For help? Whither are you going?

Tell me, as I want you to bring My sad love to the lady of my dream

With eyes as bright as the moon beam.

Do not fall, but wait for a while Until I sing

To you my love's songs with a smile That lend you wing

To fly still farther down the lea, Where you will fall and carpet be

To her tender feet, that she'll feel The warmth of my love you conceal.

Tell her that my love is sincere, That my heart pains

That her precious love I revere Though my life wanes.

Fly, oh wanderer, obey my bidding And bring back her dear love to me.

Then, we'll be happy, we will sing The songs of love upon the lea!

—ESANIP.

Hongkong, November 21.

THE SONG O' THE ONIONS.

Words by ESANIP. (Fox Trot.)

Tune: "Dalgung Bundok."

I am an Onion Cub I grow every where

I like the Onion Club Because there is an abundance of water—there!

Pick me up—O, I don't care I know that you will use me well;

But your eyes—have a care Or tears will sprout like water well.

Chorus.

Don't cry when you eat the Onion Cub.

Don't you water your eyes with wintry tears.

'Cause I will not be glad, O, even the Onion Club.

But we'll give you a few bottles o' beer

To drown your hearts that's feeling sad.

II.

I serve the poor, I serve the Kings;

I serve even the Boors Who eat me when they sing.

And so, you see—A dinner will not be good

Without Onions

That mix with all sorts of food.

Chorus.

Hongkong, November 22.

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN.

THE WEEK'S CHAT.

THE LOCAL PURCHASING POWER OF THE DOLLAR.

WHY WE SEND IT AWAY IF POSSIBLE!

Finance is a subject which the average woman tackles with extreme caution. I am an average woman and I approach the terrible question of exchange and the local purchasing power of the dollar in all humility.

To women, who are out here, the spending habit is the making class, the dollar goes only in so far as it will go in purchasing power; and when we are continually surrounded by discussion in the rise of the value of the dollar, we are bound to wonder why we cannot get more for it than we do.

If we send our dollars to England, we get 5/- worth of goods for each dollar, we scan the prices in home catalogues and we feel that it is mere waste of money to buy stuff locally when the 2/- article is still marked at one dollar or one dollar and a half.

The favourite argument of the shop-keeper, in support of his high prices is that he imported his stock at a low rate of exchange, when the dollar stood in the neighbourhood of 3/-. To us women it seems that he is either not long sighted enough or he is too greedy to realize that he should sell his goods at a fair margin of profit, based on the cost of replacing these goods. He takes up precisely the same points of the merchant who has imported an article, for which we will say—by mistake he has paid too much; and finds that the market selling price of that article is lower than the price at which he proposed to sell, to show him, a fair profit.

His right policy would appear to be to get rid of it, at the last market price and cut his loss.

We are told that we are buying many articles at pre-war prices. In the experience of most women most of the articles that are bought at such prices are not worth putting on public sale. In clothing lines, the stuff is out of date and on the verge of rotting; in food lines the goods are rusty and useless. In any case the element of risk in the purchase of such goods is so great as to outweigh the difference in the outlay.

In maintaining their present policy the local shop-keepers will be faced in the near future with innumerable small competitors, in the shape of their own customers, who, finding that local prices are not being reduced with the rise in exchange, have imported individually to meet their various requirements. That this procedure is already starting, we have ample evidence in the conversation and chat amongst women who are all determined to get the best value possible for their money; and when the shop-keeper finds his sales going down and his custom diminishing we shall hear the bitter cry, Why do people neglect local enterprise and send their money out of the country?

I may be unpatriotic but I shall certainly try to make my dollar buy 5/- worth of stuff abroad rather than 2/- worth out here.

The cool weather of the last week has been a spur to gaiety. Hongkong society has been faced with the problem of choosing where to dance. There have been several private hops, where the principal difficulty is for the men to find partners, owing to the scarcity of girls. I have often had serious thoughts of starting a sort of social school for young girls of good family in Hongkong, bring them in one shipload a year and introduce them to young male society, which must be scarcer than ever in the old country, since the war.

On Thursday night, there was a delightful private dinner and dance at the Hongkong Hotel, most of the young society girls were there. The same night the Peak Hotel was filled to its utmost capacity. There were nearly one hundred guests for dinner alone and the dance afterwards was thoroughly enjoyed by every one.

General Ventris had a large dinner party at which the chief element appeared to be naval. We noticed among the guests, a recent bride and bridegroom, Commander and Mrs. Bennett, the latter in a simple but charming gown of lettuce green. Mr. and Mrs. Hay were also of the party. Major Bowen entertained among others Sir William and Lady Rose-Davies.

Lady Rose-Davies wore a beautiful gown of crushed strawberry with a fish train. Mrs. Arthur who, with her husband, dined with Captain Monmouth, looked very charming in a shell pink frock. Mrs. Sim's dress of sea lace, had a drapery of victrola lace, which was most original in its effect of pleats.

Commander and Mrs. Jenkins were among the hosts of the evening. It was difficult to sort out different parties, when most people knew each other and met in the ball room after dinner.

Practices for the Caledonian Ball are going on apace, and some of the efforts of conscientious dancers were more pathetic than humorous. I expect however they will all, like amateur actors, be alright on the night, and if they are not, there will be such a crush, that no one will notice what anyone else is doing, and if every one is thoroughly cheery and unselfconscious, everything will be top hole. I notice an appeal by Mrs. Stubb for assistance in the matter of warm clothing and money for refugees in Siberia. I think, as a race, we are better at taking on other people's burdens than any other race in the world. The need for help seems very urgent however, and I suppose in our progress through life we must just take each job as it comes along and do the best we can to help each other irrespective of race and creed. Sometimes it seems that we must have wrongs and poverty, sickness and misery near at hand to be attended to.

European women and children in the Colony who need help and advice, deserted children of white fathers who are growing up in utter ignorance of the European blood and instincts in their veins, should be taken in hand and saved and made to shoulder the burden of the white man.

I suppose the trouble is that money alone will not help to settle local problems. Money is easier to give than service and the results are more satisfactory and less complicated.

One has always felt this question very keenly, when you see the unemployed problems of slum life and unemployment in England, while hundreds of thousands are being spent on trying to reform mores, that have their own ideas, their own Gods, and their own standards of civilization.

CHAMPION GIRL GOLFER.

MISS AUDREY CROFT, OF ASHFORD MANOR, OR.

The first holder of the girls' golf championship is Miss Audrey Croft, of the Ashford Manor Club, who in the final at Stoke Poges on September 18 beat Miss Christina Clarke, of Reddish Vale by one up.

Miss Croft, when a mite of three, is said to have preferred her father's golf clubs to her dolls. At 14 she had the ambition to gain high honours at the game, and now, when only 17, she has proved herself to be the best girl golfer in the kingdom.

Mr. Harold Hilton, who is secretary of the Ashford Manor Club, has followed Miss Croft's progress with great interest, and predicts a great future for her.

Miss Croft's father, who is a golfer of no mean skill—a plus 2 player at Ashford Manor—accompanied his daughter round and carried her clubs.

CONTRAST IN FINALISTS.

The finalists presented a marked contrast. Miss Clarke, who is two years older than Miss Croft, was far the heavier, and it was thought her extra strength would turn the scale.

Both started nervously. Miss Clarke was 2 down at the 5th, which she lost through weak putting after playing two magnificent shots. She squared at the 8th, but lost the 9th, where she fouled her tee shot, and was one down at the turn. The players were level three holes from home. Miss Clarke won the 16th by a very good put for three. She, however, played the 17th indifferently, and was bunkered going to the 18th, and lost the match on the last green.

LADY CHAMPION REFEREES.

Miss Cecil Leitch, the lady champion, acted as referee, and just to show that she was not intimidated by the play of the finalists she did a practice bit over 9 holes in 37 strokes, using borrowed shoes and clubs.

IF THE UNITED STATES SAY "NO."

SOME DISASTROUS RESULTS WHICH WILL FOLLOW IF THE PARIS CONFERENCE CANNOT VINDICATE ITS AUTHORITY—BACK WHERE WE WERE.

Mr. Frank H. Simonds, in the American Review, goes carefully over recent events in Europe and gives grave warning of what will happen if the Paris Conference cannot vindicate its authority.

"It must be perfectly apparent," he says, "that we are approaching a crisis and all the principles asserted in our new settlements must soon be vindicated or abandoned. The League of Nations has already found itself four times in conflict with national ambitions or national necessities, in the case of France, Italy, Rumania and Greece. It has so far been unable to make progress in Russia and the stuporous problem of the Turkish Empire, waits upon the willingness of the United States to assume one of the greatest obligations which was ever imposed upon a people, an obligation carrying with it only moral rewards and involving stupendous material sacrifices and not, as in the case of the American life, a considerable cost in American life.

"On the other side, if the Paris Conference cannot now vindicate its authority, if it cannot now protect Hungary against Rumania, Jugoslavia against Italy, if the United States does not accept Mr. Wilson's treaty of insurance for France, then it seems inevitable that we shall shortly find ourselves back where we were before the World War with momentous consequences, the first of which will be that the European nations, big and little, will once more turn to a system of alliances in order to obtain that immediate security which is essential to all of them even at the risk of that ultimate war which was five years ago the final circumstance in the system of alliances which had been built up by the previous generation.

RUMANIA'S CHALLENGE.

"The Rumanian course in Hungary is the first clear challenge, backed by force, to the decisions of the Paris Conference—which is for the moment the voice of the League of Nations—just as the Italian outbreak over Fiume was the first expression, unaccompanied by force or by immediate action. In both cases the issue is the same. The Paris Conference has undertaken to say, with respect to two nations recently allies of the Powers who dominate that Conference, that the national aspirations of the Italian and the Rumanian peoples are wrong, founded upon imperialistic and evil principles, and shall not prevail. In both cases the nations affected have responded with instant and unmistakable indignation and defiance. Fiume remains to all intents and purposes in Italian hands, and, despite the Allied notice, Rumanian troops entered Budapest and occupy all of the territory claimed by Rumania.

"Now, what is the Conference of Paris going to do about it? What is the League of Nations going to do about it? It can exercise a certain pressure upon Italy if it chooses. It can refuse foodstuffs, raw material, and loans. The result will be one of two things; either the Italian Government will make an immediate alliance with Germany, from whom Italy can get not foodstuffs, but a certain amount of raw material; or starvation and industrial paralysis will produce revolution in Italy, with all its effects upon France and Great Britain. But in either case perditional hostility of the Italian people to Great Britain, France, and the United States is assured. Italy, which was yesterday an ally of Great Britain, France, and the United States, now feels for all three a bitterness she never had for Germany even during the last war.

WHY THEY CHALLENGE.

"In the case of Italy and in the case of Rumania the fundamental conception of the League of Nations breaks down in the presence of nationalistic and racial emotions and aspirations of two nations. As far back as the time when the western frontiers of Germany were being fixed, we saw it break down in the presence of the French demand that the Rhine should be a military barrier against German attack. This initial breakdown of the League of Nations principles was avoided when Great Britain and France guaranteed, subject to the assent of the American Senate, to come to the assistance of France, without condition, if Germany should pass the Rhine.

"In other words, France, Italy, and Rumania have each challenged the whole basis of the League of Nations, the French on the ground of national security, the Italians for reasons of national security and racial unity, and the Rumanians on the principle of racial unity mainly.

THE FRENCH CLAIM.

"In the case of France we met the challenge by offering France something equally as good," provided the United States Senate would endorse Mr. Wilson's promises. But if the United States Senate shall reject the Anglo-French-American treaty, then, inevitably, we shall have again to deal with the French claim for the Rhine barrier, for then the situation will be what it was before President Wilson gave his pledge, and France, whose armies now occupy the Rhine barrier, will feel herself free to make that occupation permanent.

"We met the Italian demands for Fiume and Dalmatia by Mr. Wilson's note addressed to the Italian people, which was a 'mistake,' and resulted in the rally of the Italian people to their own national aspirations. We met the Rumanian situation by issuing an injunction, forbidding the Rumanian Army to enter Budapest, and the Rumanian Army ignored the injunction.

AN AMERICAN MANDATORY FOR CONSTANTINOPLE?

"Meanwhile still another problem has arisen which has unmistakable importance for the American people. The Paris Conference has understood that the United States would accept the mandatory for Constantinople, for Armenia, and not possibly for the whole of the old Turkish Empire. The impression of the European representatives, when I left Paris three months ago, was that America was already prepared, at Mr. Wilson's suggestion, to accept the Constantinople and Armenian mandates. During the past month the British Government has served notice upon the United States that it expects to withdraw its troops from Armenia and the Caucasus within a fixed time and asking that American troops replace them.

SOME GREAT-IF'S.

"If America is prepared to accept the mandatory for all of the old Turkish Empire, there will be no question of Greek claims in Eastern Turkey and even Greece herself will be prepared to waive these claims, realizing that time and American occupation will make for Hellenism.

"The Turk, if even a fiction of his old Empire is preserved, may consent to an American organization of his state, while the Armenian will welcome an American rule with an enthusiasm which he feels for no other race.

SHANGHAI WHEEL RAIDED.

PREMISES SEALED AND GUARDED.

The Senior Magistrate at the Lunghua Military Government office has reported that on Nov. 12 Chinese police made a raid on "The Wheel," No. 28 North Honan Road. Precisely what arrangements were made for an effective visit to the house are not known, but, as might have been expected, the time chosen was not auspicious from an official point of view, few people or none at all being likely to be there at that hour. The police found the house empty.

As was the case on the occasion of a raid conducted jointly by the Chinese and Municipal police at No. 24, it was found that the roulette wheels had been removed—we understand that two wheels have recently been in use—but the tables and other gambling necessities were there.

Two Chinese caretakers, or watchmen, were at the house and were arrested. Yesterday afternoon, the premises were sealed up by order of the Magistrate and men were put on guard.

Formerly, when roulette was in full swing at No. 24 North Honan Road, afternoon parties were extensively patronized, and it is possible the police may have noticed a revival of afternoon play.

On the other hand, if the United States definitely sends armies to Asia Minor and undertakes the re-organization of the Turkish Empire, then it assumes a moral obligation not merely to protect the Armenians and the Greeks from the Turks, but to protect the Turks as well, from the Greeks; and the Armenians, Greeks and Turks from the ultimate ambitions of the Italian, the Rumanians, and, in a lesser degree, the French and the British. We shall have to say "No" and back our "No" by a readiness to fight if the Italian insist upon the occupation of Adalia, if the French insist upon their claims to Sivas and Diabek. We shall have to fight the British if out of Bolshevism there presently comes a new nationalism which seeks the old objective of Constantinople.

ENORMOUS BUSINESS ACTIVITY AND NO UNEMPLOYMENT.

A REMARKABLE ARTICLE.

A striking article in the New Statesman shows that "taking the whole industry of the country, it is not true that there is a stoppage of production. It is, in fact, the very reverse of the truth. The available figures indicate that the actual production of commodities and services in the United Kingdom during the past three months, measured in quantity as well as merely in money value, has not only been greater than in 1913, but also greater than at any previous period. Why then this talk of national bankruptcy?"

ASTONISHING INCREASES FOR FARMERS.
"Our largest industry is agriculture, which employs, roughly speaking, one-tenth of our people, and produces, we may say, something like one-tenth of the National Income. How is it with this not unimportant part of our material well-being? In the aggregate, the Times expert tells us, the crops are better than those of the last two years; the farmers are known to have been making astonishing incomes; as lately as June last there were actual figures of 44 per cent. more crops in milk than in any other year, and far more than at any other time in the history of the Empire (yet how often have we been told of sophisticated cases of dairy herds being given up!) sheep show a decline, but pigs an increase, and the new capital that is being put into land purchase is beyond all precedent.

EVERY SHIPYARD AT ITS BUSIEST.
"If we go from farming to shipbuilding, we find every shipyard at its busiest; production for civil purposes going up by leaps and bounds, and orders enough in hand at most profitable prices to keep this important industry at full speed for the next five years. The profits of the shipping companies, whether with liners or tramps, are, indeed, notoriously still fabulous; and the world's hunger for tonnage makes not only the shipyards, but also all the port industries, prosperous.

FACTORIES WORKING OVERTIME.
"If we turn from the ports to the factories, we find every kind of woollen manufacture working full time, doing his best, to extend his plant, and eagerly demanding more hands and more overtime, to cope with the pressure for delivery, at almost any price, that comes from every country. The oldest practitioners of the trade cycle that it gets tioner in the industry has never experienced such prosperity. Cotton has no such boom on as wool, but the mills are running on the whole almost at their full capacity, and very nearly all the spinners and weavers are now at work again full time. The exports of cotton piece goods during the last three months were, in quantity, as great a rate as during the whole of 1917.

REMARKABLE EXPORT TRADE.
"The export trade, in fact, is recovering itself with quite remarkable rapidity. Certainly the financiers who have lately been buying up cotton mills at extraordinarily high prices are counting on exceptional prosperity. We are apparently still producing 20 per cent. more steel than we did in 1913. The rapidly increasing number of manufacturers of motor-cars frankly confess that they are producing more cars than ever, and yet not enough to keep pace with the orders they are receiving.

PROFITABLE CLOTHES AND MORE COAL.
"And if we turn to the big item of clothes, on which we spend twice as much as on alcoholic drink, the figures of the drapery companies' sales, and the profits they are making, indicate a volume of profitable business that has never previously been reached in the whole history of the country. Even in coal-mining—as to which the Coal Controller publishes figures so scandalously misleading as to make even official statisticians blush—miners are still being kept idle by the mine management, or sent back without being allowed to work by reason of the shortage of plant or of railway waggons; the production is now not far short—in March and May it was actually in excess—of the 1914 million tons per four weeks on which Mr. Justice Sankey counted; although the mechanical improvements on which he partly relied have apparently not been effected by the Coal Controller.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT.
"Let us see how this conclusion is borne out by other evidence. What about the employment of the people? Owing to the State Unemployment Benefit we know, pretty accurately, how many wage-earners are in work, and how many unemployed. In the last week of August, in spite of the attraction of the State Benefit, and of the demobilized army, out of every 100 men, women and young persons, 87 were at work at full wages, and 13 only were unemployed. It should be explained that, during the last quarter of a century, the average percentage of unemployed has been just about three, and it is only in the very best years of the trade cycle that it gets down to two. But the figures are even more significant of a high level of production than at first sight appears.

"The percentage of unemployed among the members of Trade Unions giving out-of-work benefit—that is, mostly skilled men—is down to 2.2 per cent.; and is as high as that only because of the temporary dislocations due to the Yorkshire coal strike. In nearly all industries it is less than 1 per cent., indicating, practically, that there are no skilled men to be had. The unemployed, in fact, now consist—with the exception of less than 1 per cent. of the total wage-earning population—of 835,000 demobilized soldiers nearly all without specific trades, whom the Employment Exchanges have not yet been able to place. There could not be stronger confirmation of the general high level of production.

OUR INCREASED WEALTH.
"The final test is, What is the aggregate value of all our 'fortunes'—what would our executors have to pay Death Duties on if we all, including every person in the nation, were to die? Dr. J. C. Stamp, late of the Inland Revenue, than whom there is no higher authority, puts the aggregate increase in our individual wealth, comparing it with what it was in 1913, at not less than five thousand million pounds—against which the Government, which is ourselves collectively, is in debt to the extent, measured in the same currency, of six or seven thousand million pounds. What we should like to see are the Income Tax statistics for the current year, which are, of course, not available. But it is an open secret that these returns are, on the whole, simply astonishing to those who are watching them; and the Chancellor of the Exchequer is even hoping—what with booming receipts from all the taxes and the high prices realised from the mountains of 'surplus' of all kinds—to make both ends much more nearly meet than he feared three months ago."

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

WHEN you have a bad cold you want a remedy that will not only give relief, but also a prompt and permanent cure. A remedy that is pleasant to take, a remedy that contains nothing injurious. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all these requirements. It acts on Nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the passages and restores the system to a healthy condition. This remedy has a world-wide sale and use, and can always be depended upon. For sale by all Chemists and Druggists.

MAXWELL TRUCKS.

IN considering the cost of motor vehicles versus animal-drawn vehicles do not overlook the dispatch with which the work can be done, the carrying capacity, the less care and attention, the saving in upkeep and you will appreciate the saving in cost of transportation in favour of the Maxwell Truck.

The Maxwell Truck works all day—every day. No wagon can keep up with it. Weather can not keep it in-doors. No animal or machine can equal it for willing and competent service.

Investigate the daily savings in hauling cost. Maxwell Trucks are accomplishing for others. You will wonder why you have not bought a Maxwell Truck before. Magneto, Worm Drive, 10 foot loading space, Electric Lights and Generator.

WEEKLY SHARE REPORT

Measures. W. Logan & Co., report on November, 21.—During the past week our local Market has been very quiet with only a small amount of business passing due principally to the continued rise in exchange, buyers having retired from the market. There is, however, no inclination to sell at prices below current rates.

Banks.—Hongkong and Shanghai Banks have received and shares can now be had at $570.

Marine Insurance.—No business has been reported in this Market. Cantons, have sellers at $412. North China, $300. Unions, $195. Yangtze, $250 and Far Easterns $12.

Fire Insurance.—Hongkong Fire is weak with sellers at $345 and China Fire at $138.

Shipping.—Douglases advanced during the week from $86 to $91 at which rate there are now sellers. Steamboats are quiet with sellers at $23. Star Lines at $32 and Indo Chinas (Preferred) at $20. The deferred shares are slightly easier and are quoted nominal at $230. The London rate we understand is quoted at $52.

Refineries.—Sales of China Sugars have been reported at $191 and buyers are in evidence at $200 for March delivery. Malabons are quiet with sellers at $44.

Docks and Wharves.—Hongkong and Kowloon Wharves are quiet with sellers at $104. Kowloon Docks have been done at $182 but at the close have sellers at $180. Shanghai Docks are very firm with buyers at $126 cash and $130 December delivery.

Cottons.—There is a lull in the Shanghai Market but there are no signs of eagerness to sell shares at present, the following are the latest quotations.

Ewos	.....	Tls. 650
Kung Yiks	.....	56
Laou Kung Mows	.....	280
Oriental	.....	320
Yangtze	.....	37
Shanghai Cottons	.....	335

Miscellaneous.—Cements have possible sellers at $7. China Borneo have changed hands at $143. Steam Laundries are wanted at $32. Watsons at $6. Powells $12 and Wisemans $27. China Providents are quiet with sellers at $8. China Lights (old) $73 (new) $83. Peak Trams $7 and Waterboats $14. Electrics have receded and shares can be obtained at $90.

THE 8-HOUR DAY IN FRANCE.

Representatives of the metallurgical, mining, mechanical construction, electrical and manufacturing employers' union, and of the Federation of Metal Workers of France, have agreed upon the following conditions: There shall be an 8-hour day in all these industries. The employees will adapt themselves to modern developments in machinery and to reasonable methods of work in order that production may early resume its former status and attain the proportions necessary to the general welfare. The employers recognise that in order to maintain and develop production it is expedient to establish piece rates, premiums and bonuses, and they agree to guarantee a wage based upon production under normal conditions; and if, by reason of the activity and efforts of the employees, production exceeds this base, the employers are assured that their intensified production shall not be considered as a reason for a reduction in wages. The reduction of the hours of labour to eight per day shall not mean a decrease in wages. Employees working by the hour shall have compensating increase on hourly rates, but changes in piece rates shall be demanded only when such rates, without change in equipment, do not afford, with normal effort, an opportunity to earn the usual wages.—Engineering.
